ARE YOU?

Introduction

This little work is intended to present a clear and simple explanation of the stark and yet genuine differences between being a pagan Gentile, or an Abrahamic Covenant Jewish individual, or a brand new, New Creature in Christ Jesus.

By the use of color to distinguish each group, it makes the explanation much clearer.

Within the Christian world today there is a lot of confusion as to what each of these groups are and what makes them so different from one another.

The author also desires that all persons receive a complete understanding as to what happens to any individual when they ask Jesus of Nazareth to forgive them of their sins, and come into their heart and life.

Written in a style to be understood by adults and children alike, please read this simple presentation of God's plan for each of His Human creations.

What Color Are You?

The plan that God has for Mankind is in many respects beyond words. His love is more than we are ever able to measure, because the Scriptures reveal to us that God does not simply have love, but rather is Love. His capacity for mercy and grace and forgiveness and compassion and goodness are without boundaries.

God's holy Word, in giving unto us all things that pertain to life and Godliness (II Peter 1:3), reveals to us the wonderful Master Plan that He has established from everlasting for men and women to be restored in their relationship to Him. And God is a God of faith. He created this whole universe that we find ourselves a part of . . . by faith. And that is the way that He operates in everything.

For some people what God has done seems clear, and they just move right along in their walk with the Lord. For others, the Scriptures present the facts of what God has done, but they do not seem to grasp with simplicity the clarity of the picture.

With the help of the Holy Spirit of God, we shall take a look at the facts from another perspective, using colors in a simple illustration, and trust God to give unto us insight and confirmation. For the purpose of this illustration, we will use the color blue to represent all pagan Gentiles, and the color orange to represent all Abrahamic Covenant Jewish individuals, and the color green to represent all New Creatures, i.e., all Born-Again Christians.

How It All Began . . .

Within the Book of Genesis, which is the first book of the Bible, we discover that God created Man in His own image, and after His own likeness (Genesis 1:26). With the original intent that all men and women would be God's very own children, and that He would finally have the family that He has always desired.

Adam and Eve were full of life, and some people believe that they literally glowed with the light of God that lived within them. The Scriptures go on to tell us that Sin entered into the picture, and when Adam and Eve disobeyed God and fell prey to Sin, they were separated from God and actually became subjects of the author of Sin, who was the Devil.

When this occurred, for the sake of our illustration, may we see this as the point in time when men and women changed color to the color blue.

Adam was blue. Eve was blue. And when their children were born, they were all born blue. God was not able to talk to His men anymore the way that He used to. He still loved men, and He had established a Plan to restore His men to a position of son-ship; but for now, all of the people who were born as descendants of Adam and Eve were all born blue.

Blue men began to build cities. Blue men began to call upon the name of the Lord. Some blue women were tricked and seduced by evil fallen angels and produced unredeemable offspring. And one blue man was even translated from off of this Earth so that he should not experience physical death for thousands of years.

Wickedness continued to increase more and more on the Earth as men went deeper and deeper into Sin. The unredeemable offspring of the blue women and evil fallen angels also continued to increase. The darkness got so bad that God was going to have to do something about it, so He called on a blue man to build a large boat in which he might save his family. And God flooded the Earth with water. When the flood was over, the blue man and his blue wife and blue children left the boat and began to fill up the Earth again with blue people.

Some of the blue people remembered God, but many of them forgot Him and began to worship everything else under the sun except the One True God. All of the blue people even came together and began to build a huge tower to challenge the Living God. So God came down from heaven and confused their speech and scattered the people to different parts of the land.

The people were no longer of one language, but they were all still blue. They wandered to all of the different parts of the land and built many towns and cities. At a point in time, God broke up the land into several pieces and some of the people were separated from each other by water. Still, they continued to increase and blue people began to fill up the Earth all over the place.

God Begins To Put His Plan Into Action . . .

About four hundred and thirty years after the Flood of Noah was over, a blue baby boy was born and his father named him Abram. Abram grew up to be a fine young man and he had several admirable qualities about him. One day God approached Abram and told him that He wanted to establish a legal contract with him and make him His partner. God said that He would protect him, and provide for him, and fight for him, and make him rich, and cause that he would have many, many descendants. Abram figured that this was a pretty good deal, and so he agreed to enter into this legal contract with God called a Covenant. Part of the deal was that Abram would have his name changed to Abraham, and he and all of his male descendants would have to become circumcised as a sign of this Covenant.

When the contract was finalized and Abraham was circumcised, something wonderful happened . . . he changed from the color blue to the color orange. He was no longer a blue man. He was no longer the same as all of the other blue men around him. He was in a legal relationship with the Living God and he was different. Abraham's wife also changed to the color orange and they were very excited about all of the orange people that would now come forth because of God's promise to cause that Abraham would have many, many descendants.

When God established His Plan to restore man, He knew it would only work if it were based upon faith. And when year after year went by and Abraham and his wife did not have any children, they decided to help God out by using one of the blue servant girls named Hagar to produce a son.

This was not part of God's Plan. This new blue baby boy was not the fulfillment of the promise that God had made . . . faith was not involved!

One day God visited Abraham and told him that the promise that He had made unto him to make him a father was going to come to pass the very next year. Abraham was now an old man and he laughed at God's statement. But he still believed that if anybody could do it, God could. So, Abraham trusted in God, and sure enough the next year his wife Sarah gave birth to a bouncing blue baby boy! According to rules of the Covenant, this baby boy needed to be circumcised, and when he was something wonderful happened . . . he changed color from blue to orange.

And as that boy grew up and got married he had two sons. And when his boys were circumcised, they changed from blue to orange. And so it continued down through the centuries. Orange people increased more and more.

God kept His promises and protected His orange partner people. He provided for them. He made them rich. He kept them healthy. And whenever anyone tried to beat them up, He fought for them. The most precious of all of the things that God promised to do was . . . He promised to send them a man who was to be more special than any other man: A man who would
